

Tree Equity, Bidenomics and Cultural Marxism

The other night Laura Ingraham ran a segment titled something along the lines of “Biden’s Crime Crisis Solution: Tree Equity.” Ha ha ha. How silly. But it’s true. Out of all the trillions of dollars printed by the Federal Government recently for the “Inflation Reduction Act” and other such spending bills, a few millions of dollars will be granted by the U.S. Forest Service to Wokedelic organizations like American Forests and its Tree Equity Score project in order to address the inequities of tree distribution plaguing underserved, under-privileged communities of diversity. Of course, the piece was presented in a slanted, mocking, Foxified right-wing-attack-machine style which inferred that Tree Equity meant just more money being thrown away on some frivolous Woke agenda scam. I do not necessarily disagree with this assessment.

According to American Forests, “Planting trees in underserved neighborhoods addresses basic human rights to health, safety and welfare. The benefits to mitigate extreme heat, air pollution, public health and environmental hazards are well documented.” This is not the way I would have phrased it, but there’s no doubt that most human beings enjoy a walk in the park from time to time and that there are benefits to be had in doing so. I myself make it a point every winter to take a stroll in a wooded area with burbling creeks just to have that wintry, back to nature experience. Think about why a hustling, bustling city like New York would set aside so much primo real estate to make sure there’s a Central Park available to its citizens. So, if there’s a plan to add forestation to our soulless, dehumanizing concrete and steel cities, I’m all for it.

Then there’s the crime reduction claim of the Tree Equity Score project which Fox and Talk Radio jumped on, and, in my opinion, rightly so. “Studies show that tree-lined streets can reduce crime by up to 10 to 12%!” First of all, to believe this, you have to believe something that was said by a Woke Progressive Democrat, which I strongly recommend against. Secondly, you don’t have to be an Einstein to think that there will be less crime in affluent tree-lined suburbs than in treeless, economically challenged, minority-dominated inner cities owned and operated by the Democrat Party where hopelessness, despair, and resentment toward the outside world is encouraged and cultivated. While planting trees in inner cities may help buoy some people’s spiritual well-being, considering the prevailing circumstances it’s my guess that merely adding trees will not help reduce the crime rate in any statistically significant manner.

Perhaps American Forests and the Tree Equity Score project should focus instead on root causes. Ha ha ha.

I did a Google search on “Bidenomics definition” and it came back with this Biden June 2023 tweet: “Bidenomics is about growing the economy from the middle out and the bottom up, not the top down.” Standard boilerplate Woke gobbledygook that contains little or no information. My definition of Bidenomics is printing trillions of dollars and then doling it out to the Woke friends of the Democrat Party. This dovetails nicely with my definition of inflation: Too many politicians printing too much money. For sure, the concept of a “Tree Equity Score” is eminently ridiculable, at least by non-Wokes. But for me, the meta-information to be gleaned from the above story is the existence of the Tree Equity Score project in the first place.

This is where Bidenomics becomes a key component of the Cultural Marxism space. It won't necessarily destroy Capitalism, but rather realign it. Only those enterprises that are overtly Equity-conscious, Global Warming hysterical, and LGBTQ-centric, like American Forests, will be able to stay in business. Non-Wokes will be impoverished by unemployment and inflation while a small percentage of the population will be rolling in the dough, partying like it's 2024 at their lake-front dachas. To survive, you'll have no choice but to adopt all of the tenets of IED and ESG (Inclusion, Equity and Diversity, Environmental, Social and Governance). This coercive economic strategy will fundamentally transform our society and culture into a Wokedelic Utopian Paradise.

So, if you want to get your cut of all that free money sloshing around, you'd better get real Woke real toot suite. Submitting a proposal with American flag decals plastered all over it and claiming that your efforts will restore Christian values to your troubled community is a sure-fire loser. Therefore, I now conclude this article with my version of the obligatory “What We Can Do To Take Out Country Back!”

1. Learn to speak Woke. This is not as insurmountable a task as it may seem at first blush. You'll only have to learn a few dozen words and phrases many of which I'm sure you're already familiar with.
2. Pick a name for your organization. Have some fun. Be creative. Remember, we're supposed to be trying to out-smart them, not out-stupid them. My personal favorite is “The Coalition of Diverse LGBTQ Global Warmingologists United Against the Divisive Extremist Fascist Trans-Phobic System of Oppression (CDLGBTQGWADEFTPSO).”
3. Lard up your proposal with Woke iconography. Litter your title page and headers and footers with tranny flags. Include a section that states that at your company, every day will be tranny party day and that the most convenient parking space next to the entrance will be clearly labelled “Reserved for Tranny of the Month.” Sprinkling in some faux scholarship here and there, as in “Studies show blah blah blah”, couldn't hurt.
4. If your proposal is rejected, file lawsuits.

That's all there is too it! Just follow these simple steps and you're well on your way to becoming a Woke multi-millionaire fighting for Social Justice!

To the people! For the streets!
